INCONSISTENCY

Will H. Mayes, veteran newspaper man of Texas and editor of the "Texas and Texans" column which appears in dozens of papers in the state, has a few words to say in a recent article about the 'home merchant' who preaches 'trade at home' and then spends his money for stationery and other supplies, which the home printer can furnish as good and as cheaply, from 'glib-talking, traveling salesmen.'

Mr. Mayes' article fits so exactly the condition prevailing in a few instances in Alpine that we can't let it go by without copying it in the Avalanche. We appreciate the fact that most of the Alpine merchants are loyal to all the home enterprises, including the newspaper, but we can name two or three at least of the most 'prominent' ones—those who preach the loudest and longest about trading at home and 'keeping Alpine money in Alpine' who are guilty of the very charge that Mr. Mayes makes in his article.

Read Mr. Mayes' little article, think it over and decide if this 'trade at home' business should not be extended to include EVERY business in town. The newspaper does as much as any other one agency to build up the community, bring more people here and increase property values. It pays taxes, spends the money it makes here, contributes to the upkeep of the schools, churches, athletic programs and everything else that comes along in addition to the yards and miles of space given away free in its columns in boosting the town and community. Should we not be considered when 'keep Alpine money in Alpine' is being preached and demand the same consideration that the grocery stores, dry goods stores, confectioneries and every other line of business in Alpine are demanding? We believe so. Here's Mr. Mayes' article—read it and think.

'Home Pride First.' The citizen without pride in his own community has no pride in his state and mighty little patriotism. One's first duty is to home enterprises. An editor of one of Texas' best weekly newspapers—a man who has all his life given more time to work for his town and county than to his own financial interests—recently told me that some of the business concerns of his town that have much to say about 'mail order business' and who would boycott a citizen who orders goods in their line out of town, are getting their stationery and job printing from glib-talking, traveling salesmen, instead of buying it at home. Putting it down plainly, in terms that can't be misunderstood: The business that doesn't support in every possible way home enterprises, including the home printing plant, doesn't deserve support.

Consistency, thou art a jewel!

A TRAGIC DEATH.

W. B. Summers died at Big Hill, an oil field about thirty miles from Beaumont, some time Tuesday night. He had retired at the usual time and no disturbance was heard during the night. His room-mate awoke about five o'clock Wednesday morning to discover that he had left the room, leaving a trail of blood behind him. Help was summoned and his lifeless body was found. His throat had been cut and the unfortunate man had bled to death.

Deceased was an oil field worker, about 32 years of age. He was reared at Christine where his parents and two brothers now reside. About five years ago, he was married to Miss Josie Weber, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Weber of this place. They have three children, the youngest a three-weeks old infant. Mrs. Summers and the children were with her parents here when the news of the husband and father's death reached them.

The body was shipped here from Beaumont and arrangements are being made for burial in Oakwood cemetery at 3 o'clock today. Rev. Albert Nelson of the local Baptist church will conduct the funeral service.

The Anvil Herald joins in sympathy for the stricken wife and the fatherless babes.

SOPHIAN CLUB.

The next regular meeting of the Sophian Club will be held at the High School auditorium Wednesday afternoon, March 26.

Miss Ruth Watson will be hostess for the afternoon. Miss Willie D. Fly will discuss Van Doren's criticism of Walter Edmunds and Mrs. T. B. Knopp will discuss local color in Edmunds novel, "Rome Haul."

In addition to the above program the program of the postponed meeting of March 12 will be given.

BAPTIST MEETING IN PROGRESS.

The protracted meeting began at the Baptist church Sunday. Following the clearing up of the weather, a tent was raised on Public Square and services are being held each day at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. in the tent.

Rev. J. P. King, Missionary of the San Antonio Baptist Association, is doing the preaching and the meeting will be continued throughout next week.

SOMETHING TO CHEER ABOUT.

Get set for your happiest experience in months of picture-going. Co-ed cuties! Campus cut-ups! Songs galore, merry high-jinks! Thrills of football! Thrills of boy and girl love affairs! It's youth—it's fast—it's grand and funny every minute! SO THIS IS COLLEGE at the Colonial Sunday and Monday, March 23-24.

ST. JOSEPH'S DAY CELEBRATED AT DEVINE.

Wednesday, March 20, St. Joseph's Day, the feast of the patron saint of St. Joseph's Church at Devine was commemorated by an all-day celebration by the parishoners and visitors from neighboring communities. High Mass was celebrated in the forenoon and a sumptuous dinner was served at noon. Among those from here who attended were Sheriff and Mrs. Chas. Schuehle, Judge and Mrs. R. J. Noonan, Tax Assessor and Mrs. L. E. Heath, Mrs. Fletcher Davis, Judge and Mrs. H. V. Haass, Mrs. H. E. Haass, County Clerk and Mrs. S. A. Jungman and son, Anthony, Paul Renken, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Finger, Frank Finger, Superintendent W. N. Saathoff, Tax Collector F. G. Muenink, Treasurer and Mrs. Jack Droitcourt and District Clerk Emil Britsch.

OFF FOR SOUTH AMERICA.

After a sixty-day vacation, V. H. Blocker, Jr., left Thursday for his new consul post at Asuncion, Paraguay, where he will be permanently stationed in the government service. V. H. goes first to Washington, D. C., for his final orders and from there will go to New York from which point he will sail later for his post.

Asuncion is the capital of Paraguay and while a seaport town because it is situated on the Paraguay River, it is far in the interior of the South American continent.

The Anvil Herald joins V. H.'s friends in wishing him a safe journey and a pleasant and profitable sojourn with Uncle Sam's South American neighbors.

THE RAIN.

Several cloudy, drizzly days over the week-end and the early days of the week, accompanied at times by considerable showers, amounted, in the aggregate, to about an inch and a half of rain. At no time did it fall in sufficient quantity to flow off and the ground was gradually being soaked, but towards the middle of the week it cleared off with a dry cold nother and the surface of the ground dried out rapidly.

As we go to press Friday, however, the weather is again cloudy and drizzly and hopes of more of the much needed moisture has revived.

TEXAS AND TEXANS

TEXAS AND TEXANS.

By Will H. Mayes.

"All Texans for All Texas"

Moody Lauds All Texas

Governor Dan Moody, in a signed article in the San Antonio Express, while especially referring to the Lower Rio Grande Valley, takes occasion to laud all Texas in terms good enough to be given the Statewide circulation of the "Texas and Texans" feature, and but for the fact that the San Antonio paper says that its reproduction is prohibited "except by permission," liberal excerpts would be made here.

At the risk of giving offense, it will be stated that Moody says that Texans love and believe in their State because they know its greatness and that it is not equalled by any other section of this Continent. To which I will add that all that is needed to make Texans love a greater appreciation of their State is to know more about it in all the vastness of its resources and the possibilities of its development. Texas and Texans' is dedicated to that purpose, and the paper in which you are reading this is doing its full part toward bringing about an understanding of the constructive work going on throughout all the State.

Where Texas Keeps Growing

The Pecos Enterprise says that practically every town along the T. & P. from El Paso to Big Spring is "evidencing a prosperity unprecedented at this time of the year." With few exceptions this might be said of every town clear on through Texas to Texarkana. The exceptions are those places that are so listless that they seem to be in hiding and dying the slow death that comes from inertia.

The Enterprise adds: "This is an age of hustle; no longer can an individual or a community sit idly by and grab things as they pass." That paper sets an example every week of what it means by "hustling." Newspapers are not exempt from the rule that success is measured by effort.

Co-Operation Brings Success

The Cameron Herald says "Co-operation is necessary for community development." The Herald is right. There never has been any great progress in the world without united effort. The bigger the program, the greater the necessity for the help of every one. It applies to Texas as a whole as well as to Cameron. California and Florida learned that long ago and their development has been due to it. The size of Texas and the great variety of resources of the various sections have worked against the co-operation that must be had for great growth.

Baby Chick Carnival

DeLeon has sprung something new—a baby chick day, and to keep it along one free raffle ran a double page "spread." It was the usual business "Trades Day," with special stress placed on the baby chick industry. Last month the merchants had a dairy show, in connection with the trades day. There are industries enough around DeLeon to have something different every month, and in doing so the local people will doubtless be surprised at the variety and extent of their resources. The idea is not copyrighted, and other places may use it to advantage.

You Can Picture It?

The movement to build a 100,000 acre irrigation dam on the Colorado 20 miles west of Ballinger is being revived. Preliminary work is being done for a 40,000 acre irrigation district at Brownwood on Pecan Bayou, a Colorado river tributary. Work is also progressing on preliminaries for a huge dam near Marble Falls. In a few years the entire valley of this long stream will likely be irrigated. Similar enterprises are under way or under consideration on the Nueces, the Pecos, the Rio Grande, the Gauda, the San Antonio, the Brazos, the Trinity, the Neches, the Red and their numerous tributaries. Look at a Texas map and not the immense areas where water may be conserved for farming and for power, and you will be amazed at what may be, and in time will be the agricultural and industrial development of Texas, and should be ready to help the movement along.

HONDO'S OPTOMETRIST.

Hondo is represented by V. A. Crow, member of the Texas Optometric Association, which will hold its thirteenth annual convention in Dallas April 21, 22 and 23, according to report of W. Duke Pittman of Mexia, secretary treasurer of the state group.

"It is expected that Mr. Crow will be present at the convention." Dr. Pittman said, "as subjects of great importance to the state will be discussed and Hondo has always taken a prominent part in these matters."

Optometry was regulated in Texas in 1922, during the administration of Governor Pat Neff. Since that time each optometrist who practices his

Combining Important Jobs

Devine is not a large city, but fortunately it has a citizenry of enterprising thinkers and workers. The position of city manager and manager of the chamber of commerce have been combined to the town's financial advantage, and Devine is going forward at a rapid rate. Other places larger than Devine might do the same thing without working anybody to death.

Devine is one of the cleanest, best paved towns of its size in Texas. Mayor Dubose attributes this to a derisive statement made by a Northern woman, who said she couldn't understand why her husband ever bought land near such a "ratty-looking" town. The remark was taken to heart, and the "ratty" conditions have been changed. I know at least a half dozen other Texas towns that could afford to pay this woman to visit them. They are—oh, well, I'll stop here.

Railroad Extends Line

The Santa Fe has completed its line to Eldorado from San Angelo, and that town is feeling mighty good about it. The line will soon reach Sonora, 20 miles farther south. Menard, Kimble, Sutton and Schleicher counties hold wonderful possibilities for rapid and early development in a way as yet almost untouched.

Life on the Farm

Writing in the Cuero Record J. P. Bridges makes some apt statements that need no further comment: "There is one advantage about eggs, and that is when they don't bring enough at the store, they always go good on the table." "Ham and eggs are just as palatable, without the ham, as pork and beans in cans." "Out on the farms, when the money crop fails there is no house rent to pay, no wood and water bills, and no electric light bills." "Give a man milk and butter, chickens and eggs (and he might add, 'a few hogs') and if it wasn't for the upkeep of his automobile and the gasoline he has to pay cash for, he would be all right." "When these fellows around the cities get out of work, it means stop eating unless somebody helps them." That is something to think about before leaving the farm for the lure of city life.

Carload of Pecan Trees

The Uvalde Pecan Plantation owners have planted a solid carload of young pecan trees, which will be irrigated and cared for to bring early profitable production. Every farmer in Texas should try growing at least a few pecan trees of the best varieties.

Improving Paper, Helping Town

Having bought the New Braunfels Herald, which he has been conducting a year, Charles W. Scruggs, announces he will add equipment that will make possible "a very definite and surprising improvement in both the appearance and style of the paper." He has been improving the Herald all the while, and those who know Charlie Scruggs know that it will be kept to the highest standards made possible by the patronage received.

Oldest Paper in Texas

The Bastrop Advertiser, now under the able direction of J. O. Smith, has passed its 77th birthday, the oldest weekly paper in Texas. Bastrop is one of the old towns that has at times been a bit indifferent to its progress, but that lately is taking on new life and growing, with Smith and his associates urging it to still greater effort.

State-Wide Disapproval

If the legislative bodies of Texas are reading press comments from the "home-town" papers they must know the general feeling of disgust on the part of the people of the State at their incompetency or dishonesty. There are competent and honest men in both bodies, but they appear to be in a hopeless minority. Certainly as a whole the bodies have not been rendering much service to Texas, leaving those who elected them to wonder in whose service they are at work.

Effective Worker Passes

"He gave freely of his time, talents and means of those things which meant for the betterment of his city and his State," expresses briefly the life-work of W. A. Salter of the Kerrville Sun, as seen by his many brethren and friends of the press, who are left sincerely grieved by his death.

profession has been required to undergo a rigid state examination on his specialty. This was done at the request of the members of the profession to protect themselves from quacks and the public from malpractice of any kind by a man calling himself an optometrist.

"Optometry," explained Dr. V. A. Crow of Hondo, "is the science of correcting errors in eye refraction. About 20 per cent of our people have some trouble with their eyes that should be corrected. The optometrist deals only with the light rays as they enter the eye, although he must know something of the general health of the eye in order to recognize it and warn the patient of anything it may indicate."

BOY SCOUTS SHOULD OBSERVE SAFETY AND FIRST AID WEEK

Every Scout, as well as all others, are urged to observe some regulations that govern your health, avoid accidents and then be able to render "First Aid."

A continuous campaign is being waged by all the larger corporations with their employees and the public in general to observe the rules of "Safety First." Literally thousands and thousands of dollars are being spent in this educational campaign.

A Boy Scout must know First Aid and demonstrate his practice of at least five rules of safety before he can become a Second Class Scout. He must be pretty thorough in First Aid to be advanced to the rank of a First Class Scout.

How many of these Red Cross first aid questions can you answer? With each of the questions counting three points, what is your grade?

Should a patient's head be placed on a pillow if his face is pale?

Should an injured person be kept warm or cool?

What is the best first aid stimulant?

Should an unconscious person be given a stimulant to "bring him to"?

What is the best stimulant for an unconscious person?

What is the difference in treatment for bleeding from artery and vein?

Should hot or cold water be used in washing out a wound?

Is it better for a wound to bleed for a short time than not to bleed at all?

Why is a wound in which dirt has been ground, or one caused by a rusty nail, especially dangerous?

OAKLAND-PONTIAC OWNERS PROTECTED FROM LIGHT GLARE.

New Fisher Windshields Place Reflections Below Driver's Line of Vision

The new Fisher non-glare windshield set at an angle which prevents annoying and dangerous reflections from striking the motorist's eyes during night driving, represents an important safety feature of the Oakland Eight and the New Series Pontiac Big Six.

This type of windshield recently was perfected by the Fisher Body Corporation after many months of intensive research and laboratory work at the General Motors Proving Ground.

After extensive experiments with light reflections on many types and designs of windshields, the Fisher engineers finally discovered that the reflections would fall safely below the driver's line of vision when the windshield was set at an angle of seven degrees.

In addition to its non-glare feature, the new windshield retains all the original advantages of unobstructed vision and scientific ventilation originally developed by Fisher.

The seven degree angle has been achieved with no increase in the diameter of the front body pillars where the vision of the driver might be obscured.

Fisher's policy of using only glassless, carefully-selected plate glass, is of course followed in the manufacture of the new seven degree windshield for Oakland and Pontiac bodies.

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY.

PRESCRIPTION FOR A HAPPY LIFE.

Hannah More's writings have become old-fashioned, but she was a wise woman and we cannot afford to neglect some things that she wrote. For instance, these lines fit into every life:

"Since trifles make the sum of human things,
And half our misery from our foibles springs;
Since life's best joys consist in peace and ease,
And few can save or serve, but all may please—
Oh! let the ungentle learn hence
A small unkindness is a great offence.
Large bounties to restore we wish in vain,
But all may shun the guilt of giving pain."

No better prescription for a happy life can be given than this simple rule: Be kind! And no better rule for kindness can be given than the Golden Rule. Get into the habit of putting yourself in the place of all with whom you have to do. Before you speak to them, think what you would think of your contemplated words if they were addressed to yourself. Nothing is finer than the exercises of the art of a Christian imagination.

"Be ye all . . . compassionate, loving, as brethren, tenderhearted, humbleminded."

YANCEY NEWS.

After so long we are able to report a little rain, though we need more, as the one we had was only a prolonged drizzle.

The Future Farmers gave a banquet to their parents last Thursday night at the school building. They were assisted by the Home Economics girls, under the supervision of Miss Lucille Shultz, home economics teacher. There were thirty-five guests present. Luncheon consisted of barbecued chicken, salads, creamed potatoes, peas and cakes, which was all very neatly arranged and appetizing.

Supt. W. N. Saathoff of Hondo was here Thursday night for the banquet.

Prof. and Mrs. Parker of Dilley were here also, for the banquet.

We are indeed very sorry to report the serious illness of Mrs. Stendebach. She has been under constant care of a graduate nurse for several days. Dr. Smith of Hondo attended her during her illness. She will not be able to teach her classes soon, so it became necessary to employ another teacher.

Miss Peachin of Abilene arrived Sunday and will teach in the place vacated by Mrs. Stendebach.

Miss Dorothy Burgin spent the week-end at home with her parents. She left again for San Marcos Monday.

Misses Ruth and Anna Laura Dunderstadt were at home from San Marcos for a few days.

There were two deaths here during the week; both were Mexican infants.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burgin and daughters, Miss Dorothy and Helen, were Uvalde visitors Sunday.

A little baby girl arrived at the home of Mr. Charles Heiligmann, Jr., March 11. Mother and child are doing well and "Papa" Heiligmann is stepping around pretty lively waiting on the young lady.

Mr. W. B. Melton went to San Antonio one day last week and had the misfortune to break his collar-bone when a truck overturned in which he was riding.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Duncan were in Yancey on business Monday.

Mrs. Philip Nixon left last week for San Antonio and will remain there for some time.

Rev. Leo Goertz, Catholic priest of Devine, was called to the bedside of a very sick Mexican woman last Thursday night. He also conducted his regular monthly services here last Saturday.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

Carrizo Springs, March 17. Carrizo Springs, famous for its hospitality, will this year revive its famous strawberry festival. This was last held in 1916 but discontinued owing to the war. A most cordial invitation is extended by the Carrizo Springs Chamber of Commerce.

The following committees are in charge of the entire celebration assuring it success. Gus Jeffrey, Chairman of all committees; Chas. F. C. Ladd, Chairman of Transportation; O. S. V. Ross, Publicity Director; Committeemen, J. H. Broadhurst, Ben Wheeler, B. L. Jeffery and C. O. Harris.

With the co-operation of the whole Winter Garden District the Winter Garden Strawberry Festival will be held in Carrizo Springs, Saturday, April 5. This festival was last held in 1916 and had an attendance of 3,500. It is confidently expected that not less than 10,000 people will accept the invitation that is herewith extended to them.

From the time the first special train arrives to the close of the day there will be something doing every minute. Band concerts, athletic sports, rodeo events to mention only a few of the numerous entertainments, also the famous barbecue with strawberries and cream will be served to every guest.

This event is considered by the movies of such interest that the Paramount News Reel will have a cameraman on the ground to take pictures. There will be several novelty events given during the day as it is the aim of the Carrizo Springs entertainment committees to have some attraction for their guests every minute of the day.

The following is the program, which is subject to minor changes:

1. 10 A. M. There will be a monster parade of decorated floats and prizes will be offered for the best in each division. There will be at least three divisions, one for towns, one for individuals and one for farmers.

2. 11 A. M. There will be a baseball game between the San Antonio Indians and a picked team of the Winter Garden District.

3. 12-Noon. There will be a giant barbecue, strawberries and cream for every guest.

4. 1 P. M. There will be a number of brilliant speakers headed by Gov. Moody.

5. 2 P. M. A Giant rodeo features many attractive events.

Several bands will be in the parade and will give concerts throughout the day.

For Tax Assessor.

Yielding to the solicitations of my many friends, I have decided to become a candidate for the office of Tax Assessor of Medina County, and now hereby respectfully announce for said office, subject to the next November general election.

It will be my earnest endeavor to meet every voter before the election, but in case I should not be able to do so, I adopt this opportunity to say that your support and vote will be greatly appreciated by me. I promise, if elected, to render impartial, courteous and efficient service to all.

Sincerely yours,
FRANK M. FINGER.

In announcing my candidacy for re-election to the office of Tax Assessor, it is a deep sense of gratitude that impels me to express my appreciation to the voters of Medina County for their liberal support and confidence reposed in me. Assuring you that if I am re-elected I will endeavor to discharge the duties incumbent upon me as Tax Assessor impartially to the best interest of Medina County.

Respectfully,
L. E. HEATH.

At the solicitation of many friends in Medina County, I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Tax Assessor at the November election, and respectfully solicit the vote and support of all voters of the county.

OSCAR L. SAATHOFF.

For Commissioner Precinct No. 1.

To My Friends and All Voters of Commissioner's Precinct No. 1.

I am again announcing myself as a candidate for the office of Commissioner of Precinct No. 1, believing it is time a change should be made in that official position of the County.

It is my purpose, in making the race for Commissioner, to try and not only try, but improve our public roads of my precinct, without favor or hope of reward, and to economically manage as far as I can the finances of the County, provided the voters and tax payers will so honor me with their support.

Hence I am asking all voters in Precinct No. 1 who have confidence in my integrity and ability to fill the office, for their support at the next election in November, 1930.

Trusting I will be your next Commissioner,

I am, most respectfully,
ALVIN MUMME.

A definite reason for extra value in our USED CARS

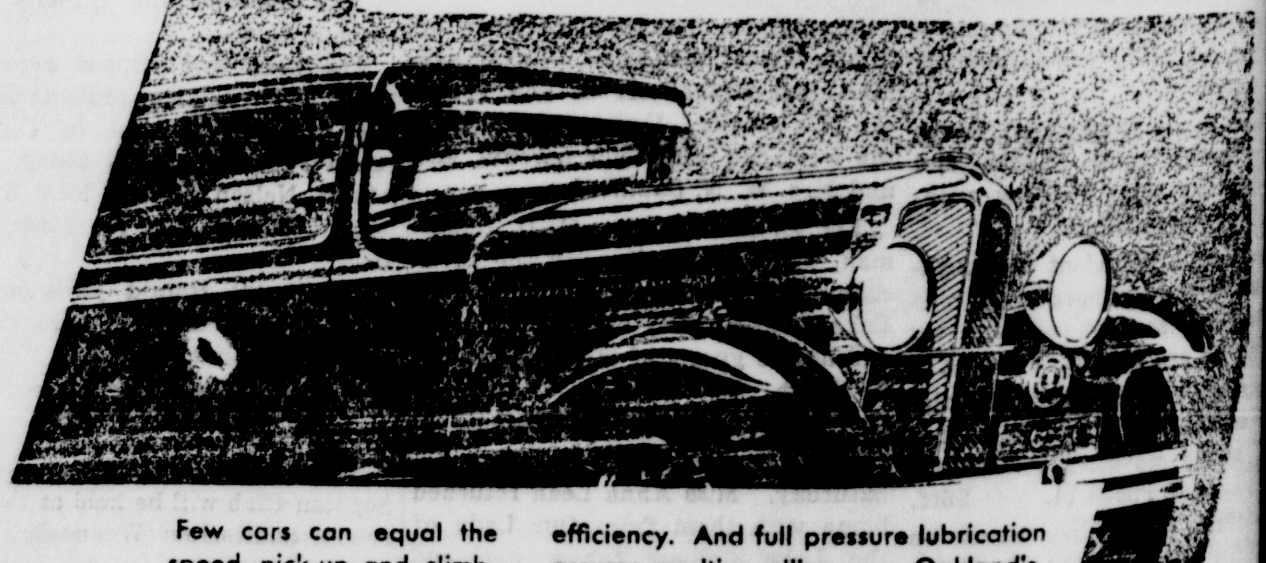

WHEN you buy a used car you should be sure the price is not put above the actual worth of the car, to allow the dealer to recoup an excessive trade-in allowance.

Under the Ford policy there is no incentive for this sort of practice—for the price of the new Ford car is so low, and the value so high, that unreasonable trade-in concessions are hardly possible.

We allow the buyer of a Model A just what his old car is worth—and we offer that used car for sale on the same basis. Model Fords are re-conditioned throughout, and guaranteed. Prices for other makes of cars are based on the service you will get from them. Right now we are offering unusual bargains in unused transportation. Stop in today, and look over these, and others—

Even with its SUPERIOR PERFORMANCE
this new eight is economical to own

Few cars can equal the speed, pick-up and climbing ability made possible by the 85-horsepower engine of the New Oakland Eight. It is the most powerful used in any car of comparable size and weight, only racing cars excepted. But even with its superior performance, this car is inexpensive to own. Its first cost is very moderate. And its gasoline mileage equals that of many sixes of the same size. . . . Maintenance costs, too, are very low because parts are easily reached and the power plant is remarkably sound in basic design. Valves can be easily adjusted. Bearings are large, sturdy, interchangeable. A water recirculation system promotes greater engine efficiency. And full pressure lubrication assures positive oiling. . . . Oakland's Fisher bodies, too, are built to withstand extremely hard wear. The effect of all these features is not only to assure economy, but to keep the car's ultimate resale value high. . . . Come in. Let us point out the New Oakland Eight's many exceptional qualities. Then let us give you a demonstration, and you will realize how much you are offered in the car with superior performance.

The New Oakland Eight, $1045 and up, f.o.b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers included in list price. Bumpers, rear fender guards and spring covers extra. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f.o.b.) price when comparing automobile values. . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired.

CHEVROLET OFFERS NEW, BROADER SERVICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Company today announces a new and broader service policy. Any Chevrolet owner, experiencing defective workmanship or material on a Chevrolet car under the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty, is invited to call upon any authorized Chevrolet dealer in the United States or Canada where the work will be done at no cost to him.
The plan, known as the Owner's Service Policy, is now in effect in the 10,000 authorized Chevrolet service stations in the United States, operating under the general supervision of the 52 Chevrolet branch offices.

The new policy takes the form of a written agreement given the purchaser of the Chevrolet dealer when the new car is delivered. It puts down in plain, understandable language the greater service protection to which every Chevrolet owner is now entitled. Briefly, it offers the following provisions:

1. Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition—thoroughly lubricated,
properly adjusted and ready to operate efficiently from the first mile of ownership.

2. Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage. This includes checking and adjusting the brakes, tappets, timing, generator, carburetor, clutch pedal and steering gear; tightening all body bolts, testing and filling battery and checking the oil level in the transmission and rear axle. The dealer assumes no responsibility for previous adjustments when they have been made in service stations other than his own.

3. Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every thousand miles thereafter so long as the car is in operation.

4. Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part, which may prove defective, either in workmanship or in material,
within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty, provided such parts and labor are not required because of accident or mechanical abuse. This includes both parts and labor. This provision will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. Accordingly, the Chevrolet owner may change his residence, or travel to any part of the country with the full assurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship will give him complete protection.

In all Chevrolet dealer's service stations there are employed skilled mechanics, thoroughly trained at Chevrolet service schools. These stations are equipped with specially designed tools and machinery developed exclusively for Chevrolet service work.

The factory issues the assurance too that each carries at all times a complete stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts. And the rates charged are standard flat rates including both parts and labor and are the lowest in the industry on many service and repair operations.

The Good Fellow

The man who spends his money quite free,
So long as it lasts, a good fellow will be;
But when he comes to the end of his row
His money is gone, he has nothing to show.
His friends no longer stay with him now;
Since his money is gone, they quit him somehow
So the sensible thing is never to play
The good-fellow game; it does not pay.

Chevrolet announces A NEW SERVICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Company and its dealers are pleased to announce a new service policy—one of the most liberal ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

Put into force as a written agreement given to the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the car is delivered—it offers the following provisions:

1 Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition —thoroughly lubricated, properly adjusted, and ready to operate efficiently from the first mile of ownership.

2 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage.

3 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every 1000 miles thereafter, so long as the car is in operation.

4 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective in workmanship or material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty. This includes both parts and labor.

5 Provision number 4 will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. As a result, the Chevrolet owner may travel to any part of the country, with assurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship

will remain in force.

This new policy constitutes proof of Chevrolet's high quality—for such liberal provisions could only be made in connection with a car built of fine materials to exact standards of workmanship.

Back of this policy, and assuring its successful operation, is one of the most complete and efficient service organizations in the world.

There are more than 10,000 Authorized Chevrolet Dealer Service Stations in the United States alone. Each employs skilled mechanics thoroughly trained at Chevrolet Service Schools. Each has specially designed tools and machinery developed exclusively for Chevrolet service work. And each has on hand, at all times, an adequate stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts.

Chevrolet's flat-rate charges, including both parts and labor, are the lowest in the industry on many service operations!

In considering the purchase of a low-priced automobile, think what this service means—in terms of lasting satisfaction, as well as in increased economy.

ANDRES GUTTENBERGER PASSES.

Andres Guttenberger died in San Antonio Sunday morning, March 16, 1930. His body was brought to the Horges funeral parlor here and prepared for burial, and interred in the Catholic cemetery at D'Hanis, Tuesday, March 18. The pastor of the Holy Cross Church, Rev. Father Mass, conducted the funeral services.

The deceased was born in Germany 84 years ago and came to America in his young manhood, settling at D'Hanis in 1882 where he resided until April 1926 when he went to live at the St. Francis Home for the Aged in San Antonio. He was never married, and so far as known had no living relatives in this country.

Peace to his ashes.

THE THINKER LEADS MODERN PROGRESS

By JOHN G. LONSDALE President American Bankers Association

THE greatest need of the world today is interpreters of our times—modern Danieles in agriculture, industry—who can see through the fog and haze that enshroud our difficult problems and advise, instruct, and influence those who are either indifferent or limited in their perceptions.

Through the thinker and the interpreter, unknown situations are disclosed, puzzling conditions explained in logical light. The American people are so constituted that they can meet and combat any situation once it is known and understood. It is the unknown that comes like the thief in the night and brings disaster.

Some one has defined prosperity as something the business men create for the politicians to take credit for. But America's present-day prosperity can be defined as a product resulting from the business man's ability to study and to interpret. Huge corporations maintain research staffs and special bureaus to interpret the times for them. Disaster looms in the offing for any industry that goes blithely on its way day after day without due regard to significant trends in trade and business.

Keeping Up With Change Leaders of finance have discovered that they cannot remain passive in an age when all the rest of the world is in a transitional stage. The modern banker not only must know about the changing styles in other lines of business, but above all must be alert to the transformations which are taking place in his own. He must be a man of keener broader vision, because the order of the day is for larger units of service. Mergers and consolidations have taken place in great numbers. We now talk of billions where a few years ago we talked of millions.

We have only begun our changes. What disposition is to be made of the many problems that they bring will depend in large measure upon our leaders, upon the students and the interpreters of the times, so that we may base future actions and hopes upon their wisdom. The quickest way to go to the top is to go to the bottom of things, and let us hope that among them will be found many who will not only aspire to leadership but will be successful in reaching their goal.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

CHILDREN who dislike milk may be converted to looking upon it as an ambrosial beverage if it is flavored with a little vanilla, and a teaspoon of sugar to a glass. In addition to its flavoring qualities, sugar is a quick source of energy expended by the active child.

Vitamins are essential to health. Prolonged cooking and too much water cause both vitamins and flavor to vanish from vegetables. Many vegetables can cook in their own juice if given the right start. String beans, cabbage, cauliflower and spinach require no more than a fourth to a half cup of water to start them steaming and releasing their juices.

Zen of The Y.D.

A NOVEL OF THE FOOTHILLS

by Robert Stead

AUTHOR OF "THE COW PUNCHER," "THE HOMESTEADERS," "NEIGHBORS," ETC

COPYRIGHT BY ROBERT STEAD

The rancher and his wife sat at the ends of the table; Transley on the side at Y.D.'s right; Linder at Transley's right. In the better light Linder noted Y.D.'s face. It was the face of a man of fifty, possibly sixty. Life in the open plays strange tricks with the appearance. Some men it ages before their time; others seem to tap a spring of perpetual youth. Save for the gray mustache and the puckering about the eyes Y.D.'s was still a young man's face. Then, as the rancher turned his head, Linder noted a long scar, as of a burn, almost grown over in the right cheek. . . . Across the table from them sat the girl, impartially dividing her position between the two.

A Chinese boy served soup, and the rancher set the example by "piling on" without formality. Then followed a huge joint of beef, from which Y.D. sent generous slices with swift and dexterous strokes of a great knife, and the Chinese boy added the vegetables from a side table. As the meat disappeared the call of appetite became less insistent.

"She's been a great summer, ain't she?" said the rancher, laying down his knife and fork and lifting the carver. "Transley, some more meat? Pshaw, you ain't et enough for a chicken. Linder? That's right, pass up your plate. Powerful dry, though. That's only a small bit; here's a better slice here. Dry summers can't mean open winters, but you can't never tell. Zen, how 'bout you? Old Y.D.'s been too long on the job to take chances. Mother? How much did you say, Transley? About two thousand tons? Not enough. Don't care if I do—Helping himself to another piece of beef.

"I think you'll find two thousand tons, good hay and good measurement," said Transley.

"I'm sure of it," rejoined his host, generously. "I'm carryin' more steers than usual, and I'll maybe run in a bunch of doggies from Manitoba to boot. I got to have more hay."

The Chinese boy served a pudding of some sort, and presently the meal was ended.

"She's been a dry summer—powerful dry," said the rancher, with a wink

"Perhaps You Will Excuse Us Now," Said The Rancher's Wife.

at his guests. "Zen, I think there's a bit of gopher poison in there yet, ain't there?"

The girl left the room without remark, returning shortly with a jug and glasses, which she placed before her father.

"I suppose you wear a man's size Transley," he said, pouring out a big drink of brown liquor, despite Transley's deprecating hand. "Linder, how many fingers? Two? Well, we'll throw in the thumb. Y.D.? If you please, just a little snifter. All set?"

The rancher rose to his feet, and the company followed his example.

"Here's ho!—and more hay," he said, genially.

"Ho!" said Linder.

"The daughter of the Y.D.," said Transley looking across the table at the girl. She met his eyes full; then, with a gleam of white teeth, she raised an empty glass and clinked it against his.

"Perhaps you will excuse us now," said the rancher's wife.

"You will wish to talk over business. Y.D. will show you upstairs, and we will expect you to be with us for breakfast."

With a bow she left the room, followed by her daughter. Linder had a sense of being unsatisfied; it was as though a ravishing meal had been placed before a hungry man, and only its aroma had reached his senses when it had been taken away. Well, it pro-green trees.

The trail lay, not up the valley, but across the wedge of foothills which divided the South Y.D. from the parent stream. The ascent was therefore much more rapid than the trails which followed the general course of the stream. Huge hills, shouldering together, left at times only wagon-track room between; at other places they skirted dangerous cutbanks worn by spring freshets, and again trekked for long distances over gently curving uplands. In an hour the horses were showing the strain of it, and Linder halted them for a momentary rest.

It was at that moment that Dratz rode up, his face a study in obvious annoyance.

"Danged if I ain't left that Pete-horse's blanket down at the Y.D.," he exclaimed.

"Oh, well, you can easily ride back for it and catch up on us this afternoon," said Linder, who was not in the least deceived.

"Thanks, Lin," said Dratz. I'll beat it down an' catch up on you this afternoon, sure," and he was off down the trail as fast as "that Pete-horse" could carry him.

At the Y.D. George conducted the search for his horse blanket in the strangest places. It took him mainly about the yard of the house, and even to the kitchen door, where he interviewed the Chinese boy.

"You catchee horse blanket around here?" he inquired, with appropriate gesticulations.

"You lossee hoss blanket?"

"Yep."

"What kind hoss blanket?"

"Jus' a brown blanket for that Pete-horse."

"Whose hoss?"

"Mine," proudly.

"Where you catchee?"

"Raised him."

"Good hoss?"

"You betcha."

"Huh!"

Pause.

"You no catchee horse blanket, hey?"

"No," said the Chinaman, whose manner instantly changed. In this brief conversation he had classified Dratz, and classified him correctly. "You catchee him, though—some h—i, too—you stickee found here. Beat it," and Dratz found the kitchen door closed in his face.

Dratz wandered slowly around the side of the house, and was not above a surreptitious glance through the windows. They revealed nothing. He followed a path out by a little gate. His ruse had proven a blind trail, and there was nothing to do but go down to the stables, take the horse blanket from the peg where he had hung it, and set out again for the South Y.D.

As he turned a corner of the fence the sight of a young woman burst upon him. She was hatless and facing the sun. Dratz, for all his admiration of the sex, had little eye for detail. "A sort of chestnut, about sixteen hands high, and with the look of a thoroughbred," he afterwards described her to Linder.

She turned at the sound of his footsteps, and Dratz instantly summoned a smirk which set his homely face beaming with good humor.

"Pardon me, ma'am," he said, with an elaborate bow. "I am Mr. Dratz—Mr. George Dratz—Mr. Transley's assistant. No doubt he spoke of me."

She was inside the inclosure formed by the fence, and he outside. She turned on him eyes which set Dratz's pulses strangely a-tingle, and subjected him to a deliberate but not unfriendly inspection.

"No, I don't believe he did," she said at length.

Dratz cautiously approached, as though wondering how near he could come without frightening her away. He reached the fence and leaned his elbows on it. She showed no disposition to move. He cautiously raised one foot and rested it on the lower rail.

"It's a fine morning, ma'am," he ventured.

"Rather," she replied. "Why aren't you with Mr. Transley's gang?"

The question gave George an opening. "Well, you see," he said, "it's all on account of that Pete-horse. That's him down there. I rode away this morning and plumb forgot his blanket. So when Mr. Transley seen it he says, 'Dratz, take the day off an' go back for your blanket,' he says. 'There's no hurry,' he says. 'Linder an' me 'll manage,' he says."

"Oh!"

"So here I am." He glanced at her again. She was showing no disposition to run away. She was about two yards from him, along the fence. Dratz wondered how long it would take him to bridge that distance. Even as he looked she leaned her elbows on the fence and rested one of her feet on the lower rail. Dratz fancied he saw the muscles about her mouth pulling her face into little, laughing curves, but she was gazing soberly into the distance.

"He's some horse, that Pete-horse," he said, taking up the subject which lay most ready to his tongue. "He's sure some horse."

"I have no doubt."

"Yep," Dratz continued. "Him an' me has seen some times. Whew! Things I couldn't tell you about, at all."

"Well, aren't you going to?"

Dratz glanced at her curiously. This girl showed signs of leading him out of his depth. But it was a very delightful sensation to feel one's self being led out of his depth by such a girl. Her face was motionless; her eyes fixed dreamily upon the brown prairies that swept up the flanks of the foothills to the south. Far and away on their curving crests the dark snake-line of Transley's outfit could be seen apparently motionless on the rim of the horizon.

Dratz changed his foot on the rail and the motion brought him six inches nearer her.

"Well, fr' instance," he said, spurring his imagination into action, "there was the fellow I run down an' shot in the Cypress Hills."

"Shot!" she exclaimed, and the note of admiration in her voice stirred him to further flights.

"Yep," he continued, proudly. "Shot an' buried him there, right by the road where he fell. Only me an' that Pete-horse knows the spot."

George sighed sentimentally. "It's awful sad, havin' to kill a man," he went on, "an' it makes you feel strange an' creepy, specially at nights. That is, the first one affects you that way, but you soon get used to it. You see, he insulted—"

"The first one? Have you killed more than one?"

"Oh yes, lots of them. A man like me, what knocks around all over with all sorts of people, has to do it."

"Then there's the police. After you kill a few men nat'rally the police begins to worry you. I always hate to kill a policeman."

"It must be an interesting life."

"It is, but it's a hard one," he said, after a pause during which he had changed feet again and taken up another six inches of the distance which separated them. He was almost afraid to continue the conversation. He was finding progress so much easier than he had expected. It was evident that he had made a tremendous hit with Y.D.'s daughter. What a story to tell Linder! What would Transley say? He was shaking with excitement.

"It's an awful hard life," he went on, "an' there comes a time, miss, when a man wants to quit it. There comes a time when every decent man wants to settle down. I been thinkin' about that a lot lately. . . . What do you think about it?" Dratz had gone white. He felt that he actually had proposed to her.

"Might be a good idea," she replied, demurely.

He changed feet again. He had gone too far to stop. He must strike the iron when it was hot. Of course he had no desire to stop, but it was all so wonderful. He could speak to her now in a whisper.

"How about you, miss? How about you an' me jus' settlin' down?"

She did not answer for a moment. Then, in a low voice:

"It wouldn't be fair to accept you like this, Mr. Dratz. You don't know anything about me."

"An' I don't want to—I mean, I don't care what about you."

"But it wouldn't be fair until you know," she continued. "There are things I'd have to tell you, and I don't like to."

"But It Wouldn't Be Fair Until You Know," She Continued.

She was looking downward now, and he fancied he could see the color rising about her cheeks and her frame trembling. He turned toward her and extended his arms. "Tell me—tell your own George," he cooed.

"No," she said, with sudden rigidity. "I can't confess."

"Come on," he pleaded. "Tell me. I've been a bad man, too."

She seemed to be weighing the matter. "If I tell you, you will never, never mention it to anyone?"

"Never. I swear it to you," dramatically raising his hand.

"Well," she said, looking down bashfully and making little marks with her finger-nail in the pole on which they were leaning. "I never told anyone before, and nobody in the world knows it except he and me, and he doesn't know it now either, because I killed him. . . . I had to do it."

"Of course you did, dear," he murmured. It was wonderful to receive a woman's confidence like this.

"Yes, I had to kill him," she repeated. "You see, he—he proposed to me without being introduced!"

It was some seconds before Dratz felt the blow. It came to him gradually, like returning consciousness to a man who has been stunned. Then anger swept him.

"You're playin' with me," he cried. "You're makin' a fool of me!"

"Oh, George dear, how could I?" she protested. "Now perhaps you better run along to that Pete-horse. He looks lonely."

"All right," he said, striding away angrily. As he walked his rage deepened, and he turned and shook his fist at her, shouting, "All right, but I'll get you yet, see? You think you're smart, and Transley thinks he's smart, but George Dratz is smarter than both of you, and he'll get you yet."

She waved her hand complacently, but her composure had already maddened him. He jerked his horse up roughly, threw himself into the saddle, and set out at a hard gallop along the trail to the South Y.D.

It was mid-afternoon when he overtook Transley's outfit, now winding down the southern slope of the tongue of foothills which divided the two valleys of the Y.D. Pete, wet over the flanks, pulled up of his own accord beside Linder's wagon.

"Lo, George," said Linder. "What's your hurry?" Then, glancing at his saddle, "Where's your blanket?"

Dratz's jaw dropped, but he had a quick wit, although an unbalanced one. "Well, Lin, I clean forgot all about it," he admitted, with a laugh, "but when a fellow spends the morning chatting with old Y.D.'s daughter I guess he's allowed to forget a few things."

"Oh!"

"Reckon you don't believe it, eh, Lin? Reckon you don't believe I stood an' talked for so long I just had to pull myself away?"

"You reckon right."

George was thinking fast. Here was an opportunity to present the incident in a light which had not before occurred to him.

"Guess you wouldn't believe she told me her secret—told me somethin' she had never told anybody else, an' made me swear not to mention. Guess you don't believe that, neither?"

"You guess right again," Linder was quite unperturbed. He knew something of Dratz's gift for romancing.

Dratz leaned over in the saddle until he could reach Linder's ear with a loud whisper. "And she called me 'dear'; 'George dear,' she said, when I came away."

"The h—! she did!" said Linder, at last prodded into interest. He considered the "George dear" idea a daring flight, even for Dratz. "Better not let old Y.D. hear you spinning anything like that, George, or he'll be likely to spoil your youthful beauty."

"Oh, Y.D.'s all right," said George, knowingly. "Y.D.'s all right. Well, I guess I'll let Pete feed a bit here, and then we'll go back for his blanket. You'll have to excuse me a bit these days, Lin; you know how it is when a fellow's in love."

"Huh!" said Linder.

CASTROVILLE, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 19, 1930

SHERIFF W. M. McKINNEY DEAD.

At Saturday morning, just after eight, Ex-Sheriff W. M. McKinney of Hill County died in the home of W. G. Brymer, his son-in-law, at Castroville. The funeral service and burial took place Saturday afternoon at the old Lutheran cemetery, C. P. Hasskarl of the Quihi church officiating. From the service, the following interesting data were gathered:

Mr. McKinney was born near Shoals, Alabama, September 1862, and received there a rural education and grew up to manhood. As a young man he came to Texas and located in Hill County, where for a time he was farming. Here also he was in marriage with Miss Elizabeth of Hillsboro. This proved a long and happy union which was blessed with four sons and three daughters, all of whom survive their father, namely: Lee McKinney of Texas; Clarence McKinney of Okla.; B. T. and Elenora McKinney of Phoenix, Ariz.; Mrs. Lewis of Hattiesburg, Miss. McKinney of Hale Centre and Mrs. G. Brymer of Castroville and number of grandchildren. Mrs. McKinney preceded her husband in 1914. From then till he died the last roll call Mr. McKinney made his home with his children, mostly however, with Dr. and Brymer of Castroville. In his prime manhood Mr. McKinney was a public spirited man and took an active part in all matters pertaining to the up-building of his home community. He was actively engaged in the restoration days after the Civil War, restoring again law and order to the white man's rule in his native land. Being a brave and fearless man, always ready and willing to help his friends and neighbors and anxious to have the laws enforced and justice done to all alike, his qualities were soon recognized by the citizens of Hill County, who elected him sheriff. He held this office for 22 years and at all times enjoyed the respect and esteem

THE QUALITIES OF LEADERSHIP

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

Leadership and success, in a general way, are synonymous. They are both founded upon simple codes of thought and action, upon the realization that he who wins the laurels must be a doer, not a waiter, that application of energy, not time or luck, is what counts most. A rabbit's foot is a poor substitute for horse sense.

Both success and leadership, if they be of the highest quality, are the result of service to humanity. Service has been aptly described as "the supreme commitment of life." Analyze the lives and times of all great leaders of history and you will find that those whose names are enshrined in the hearts of their countrymen are those who sought to render a needed service to the populace.

Leadership, like success, need not, however, be international or national to achieve great results. There is room for each of us to be a leader in his community, in his work, in his church, and in various organizations.

One of the indispensable qualities of leadership is the ability to persist steadfastly in the face of discouragements. If George Washington had not possessed the quality of persistence, he and his soldiers would never have survived the hunger and privations which were theirs at Valley Forge.

We have too many young men and young women these days saying a job cannot be done. Too many spend their time explaining why a thing can't be done, instead of saying, with firm resolve, that it can be done, and then going out and doing it. Anything that ought to be done is capable of being done. And anything worth doing at all is worth doing well. The fellow who handles a little job in a big way is always on the road to greater fields.

SAVINGS PASSBOOKS SOUGHT BY CROOKS

Use Them to Steal Money by Forged Slips — Should Be Guarded as Carefully as Cash.

Continual vigilance in safeguarding savings pass books, as well as blank and cancelled checks, against theft by crooks, who use this material in forgery operations, is urged on bank customers by James E. Baum, Deputy Manager of the American Bankers Association, in charge of its Protective Department. This department is continually vigilant in promoting means, both among bankers and the general public, to thwart the operation of bank crooks. It annually investigates hundreds of crimes against banks and is responsible for the majority of arrests among this class of criminals.

"In a large majority of cases of forgeries on checks or savings withdrawal orders investigated by the American Bankers Association, stolen blank checks or savings pass books were the forgers' chief stock in trade," Mr. Baum says. "In many instances the temptation presented through the careless handling by depositors of cancelled or blank checks or pass books so that they fell into the hands of others was the immediate stimulus for hitherto honest people to commit their first criminal offense."

Banks should educate their depositors to exert the same degree of care in handling these instruments and to avoid leaving them about unguarded as they exercise in respect to actual money because they represent money, he declares.

For dealing with the bank robbery situation, Mr. Baum recommends the use of electrical alarms actuated by any tampering with the wires or mechanism and also wider adoption of the plan of state police forces now employed in a few states, declaring that last year in seven eastern states where state police forces were maintained there were only 20 bank holdups as against 164 similar attacks perpetrated against banks in five states in the central and far west, where banks are denied the advantages of the speedy and coordinated action given by state-wide police forces.

"The records of the American Bankers Association Protective Department reveal that for many years the odds in favor of state police protection have been at least 8 to 1 when measured by the experience of banks in states where efficient police protection is missing in the rural districts," he says.

BANKERS STUDY CHAIN BANKING

The Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association has been specifically instructed by the general convention of the association to study and report on chain and group banking developments, and also on the proposal of the Comptroller of the Currency for an extension of branch banking in the national banking system, to permit those banks to conduct branches in the trade areas surrounding their locations.

R. S. Hecht, President Hibernia Bank and Trust Company, New Orleans, Louisiana, is chairman of the commission. The members are: George E. Roberts, Vice President National City Bank, New York, N. Y., vice chairman; Nathan Adams, President American Exchange National Bank, Dallas, Texas; Leonard P. Ayres, Vice President Cleveland Trust Co., Cleveland, Ohio; Frank W. Blair, Chairman of Board Union Trust Company, Detroit, Michigan; Walter W. Head, President Foreman-State National Bank, Chicago; W. D. Longyear, Vice President Security-First National Bank, Los Angeles, California; Walter S. McLucas, Chairman of Board Commerce Trust Company, Kansas City, Missouri; Max B. Nahm, Vice President Citizens National Bank, Bowling Green, Kentucky; Melvin A. Traylor, President First National Bank, Chicago; Paul M. Warburg, Chairman of Board International Acceptance Bank, New York, N. Y.; O. Howard Wolfe, Cashier Philadelphia National Bank, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Gurden Edwards, American Bankers Association, New York City, secretary.

A survey showing the extent to which chain and group banking has developed in the United States has been made and issued in booklet form by the American Bankers Association of New York City.

A Dollar Dinner for Four

WHO said money isn't elastic? Anyone who tries to take the joy out of life and tells you two people can't live as cheaply as one, isn't figuring on the fact that two people can stretch a dollar bill. It takes ingenuity, of course, and careful stocking up with canned foods and staples when the prices are low.

Here are recipes for the dinner which the Newly-weds can serve to two friends and be sure it is correct both as to dietetics and taste.

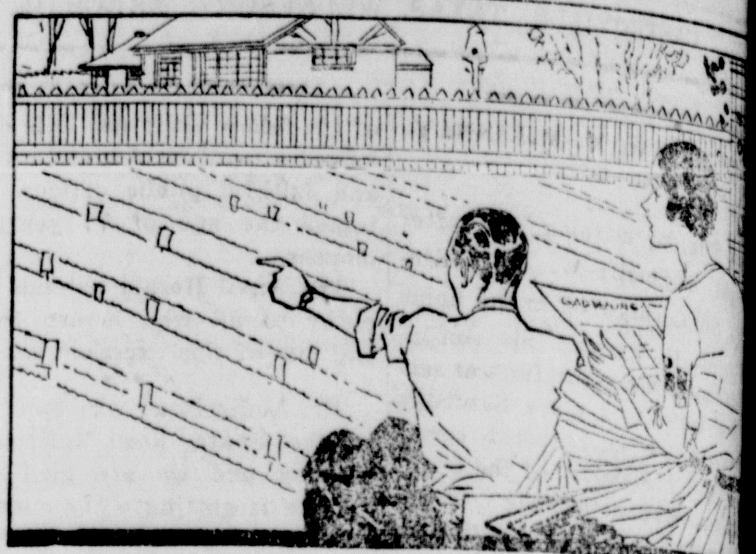

Roast Beef with Spanish Sauce: Heat one 12-ounce can of roast beef in boiling water, open, slide out the meat and slice thin. Make a sauce by cooking one and one-half tablespoons of chopped onion and one and one-half tablespoons chopped green pepper in one and one-half tablespoons of butter for a few minutes. Add one 10-ounce can of tomatoes, one 8-ounce can of diced carrots, two teaspoons capers and one-half teaspoon prepared mustard. Stew till thick and pour over the beef.

Baked Pears: From a No. 2 can of pears, drain four halves and arrange them in a baking dish. Mix one-fourth cup brown sugar, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-eighth teaspoon cloves and three-eighths cup pear syrup (half the can), and pour over. Dot with one-half tablespoon of butter on top and bake in a moderate—375°—oven for about 30 minutes.

Escarole Salad: Chill the escarole, arrange in salad bowl or individual salad plates and pour over a French dressing. The following recipe makes a delicious French dressing: put one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, two tablespoons vinegar, four tablespoons olive oil in glass jar; cover and shake thoroughly. Add a little onion juice if desired.

The Back Yard Garden, and What May Be Grown In It

By CAROLINE B. KING

A LITTLE garden at the back of the lot, a bit of space where green things may grow in neat rows, a few tomato plants, bush beans, carrots, onions, what a real joy it can add to one's life! And whether one lives in the city, suburbs, or the real country, the little garden conveniently located near the house where it may be looked after in spare hours is easily acquired.

In planning a little backyard garden it is wise to look first of all to the type of soil available, remembering that almost any kind of soil may be put into proper condition for growing garden crops. It will be well to remember also that your garden will get more sunshine and more protection from cold winds if it is planted south or east of the house, if this is possible.

Guide your rows by a line stretched on two small posts and regulate the spaces between by marks previously measured off. In this way you can obtain a pleasingly symmetrical result and a neat garden adds much to the owner's pleasure.

Rows running the long way of the garden are easier to cultivate, especially with the wheel hoe, but if the family is small so that only a little of each vegetable is used at a time, or if one can work in the garden only a few minutes a day, short rows may be better.

In a little garden it is well to plan crops so that the soil is well all through the summer for You can do this by sowing plants. Draw your garden on paper, sow your seeds to your plan, and you will have some delicious vegetables ready the table every week.

Group the early crops such as lettuce and radishes, then beans, beets, beans or cabbages, bush beans early and follow by turnips and parsnips; early borage may give its place to By rotating crops in this way possible to have a gratifying ety of fresh vegetables for table.

The time for planting the depends, of course, on the when the last frost makes its appearance. Some vegetables may be sown even before the ing season is over, radishes, nips, lettuce, peas, kale, egg and parsley are all good when it comes to cold weather get them into the soil as early as possible.

A little later, in fact, when are quite sure that last night was the last of the season, you plant early beets, early chard and onion seed. But do put bush beans, or corn in ground until all danger of frost is over. Then later still when soil has had time to become warm and mellow, you may sow egg plants, peppers, cucumbers, squash and melons.
